PLOGGING – A 'RUBBISH' WAY TO GET FIT

The eco-friendly workout trend that is sweeping the globe has arrived in Australia

A

- 1 Is Sweden only famous for Vikings, reindeer and meatballs? Absolutely not! The latest Nordic trend is 'plogging', a new workout that has made it possible to get fit and to care for the environment at the same time. The word is a combination of 'jogging' and 'plocka' – the Swedish word for 'collecting'. But what exactly do the joggers collect? Well, they carry a bag with them, and whenever they spot a bottle, cup or any other litter, they stop for a second to pick up the rubbish and put it in their bag.

B

- 10 The Swedish environmentalist Erik Ahlström started the plogging movement in 2016. After moving to Stockholm from a small ski-community in northern Sweden, Ahlström became angry about the amount of litter he saw along his cycle route to work every day. He explained, "The same trash would remain in the road for several weeks without anyone picking it up, so I started picking it up myself. It felt good in my heart to clean up even a small place." At first, he stopped occasionally to pick up trash, then it became part of his exercise routine.

C

- 20 Since 2016 more and more people have followed his example. 'Plogging runs', with groups of people coming together to run and pick up trash in places like beaches or parks, have become popular events in Sweden. Since then the movement has spread around the world, mainly thanks to social media. Posts and hashtags, first used for organizing plogging events, have carried the activity from country to country because ploggers post images of themselves on social media proudly holding waste bags full of rubbish at the end of a run. Now over 40 countries are part of the official online 'Plogga' group and big events have taken place in nearly all of them. Although plogging started in Europe, plogging groups can now be found as far away as Ecuador, Thailand and even Australia. This worldwide success is far greater than the Swedish founder ever expected.

D

Plogging is healthier than just jogging. According to Ahlström, half an hour of plogging burns 288 calories, compared with the 235 calories burned when simply jogging. When you run and stop repeatedly to pick up rubbish your pulse rate will go up and down, improving fat loss and fitness. Picking up litter uses muscles which don't get any training when you just go for a jog. Ahlström believes that the multiple benefits of plogging are what have helped make it so popular. "It's good for the body, good for the mind and, of course, good for the environment at the same time."

In Ahlström's opinion, plogging is also popular because it is so simple. Unlike many other exercise trends, it doesn't require instruction or expensive equipment. "Everyone is allowed to do it in the way they want to," he says. You just need a bag, gloves and a suitable place to dispose of the rubbish afterwards. Many ploggers even take the litter home for recycling to make sure it doesn't end up as waste in the environment. Plastic, for example, decomposes extremely slowly and has deadly consequences for our wildlife.

F

In the Pacific Ocean there is already a collection of plastic rubbish which covers an area as big as New South Wales and there will probably be three times more plastic waste in the world's oceans in the next 10 years. So, it's no surprise fitness fans are encouraging Australians to follow the Scandinavian example. Many ploggers take part in the 'Clean Up Australia Day' on the first Sunday of March each year. On this day last year, ploggers and others collected 6,400 tons of litter. Almost 40 per cent of this rubbish was made up of plastic items including bottles, bags, chip and chocolate wrappers. By combining fitness and good house-keeping, we can stop rubbish from filling our streets, beaches and parks and, in this way, save our most valuable asset: nature. "When the rubbish is gone, nature can carry on."

Flight attendant: Ladies and gentlemen, we'll soon be landing in Melbourne. Please put your seats in an upright position and fasten your seatbelts.

Steve: Aaah, ... at last!

Anna: Yes, it has been a long flight, hasn't it? Do you live in Melbourne?

Steve: I do, but I spent the last six months working in Europe. What about you?

Ben: We're on holiday. We want to learn how to dive so we've booked a 5-day beginners' course in Townsville. It starts next Thursday. It costs nine-hundred and thirty dollars each! But it's always been our dream to go diving in Australia.

Steve: So you're not staying in Melbourne then?

Anna: Oh yes, we are. We've booked a hotel for three nights.

Steve: Have you heard of the Skydeck? That's a great starting place for visitors.

Ben: What's that?

Steve: It's a viewing platform in the city centre. It's on the 88th floor of a skyscraper. On a good day you can see the whole city!

Anna: Wow, sounds great.

Steve: It is. It's open almost all day, but if you go there late afternoon you can watch the sunset and see the city lights after dark. It's very impressive. But you shouldn't be afraid of heights because you're standing on a glass floor looking down nearly 300 metres. It's south of the river, near Princes Bridge.

Anna: Hmm, ... someone told us about Phillip Island ...

Steve: Ah, the penguin island.

Ben: Is it worth a visit?

Steve: Yeah, sure. It's about 80 kilometres south of Melbourne.

Anna: Oh, so far away.

Steve: It's not that bad. It's a nice trip by ferry from Melbourne. One leaves every hour and you don't need to book.

Anna: That sounds good. Let's do that tomorrow. And then on the next day we can ...

Part 2

(Audiotrack: QR-Code oben / Aufgaben S. 2)

Guide: Ladies and gentlemen, Welcome to Phillip Island.

Here you can experience one of Australia's most famous attractions, our penguins. About 32,000 of the world's smallest penguins live on Phillip Island. They spend 80 per cent of their time in the ocean hunting fish, but each night at sunset they come back to the island. Then they walk one and a half kilometers back to their colony. This is the famous Penguin Parade. It's sure to be the highlight of your visit.

Please don't leave the viewing areas and the paths during the parade. If you get too close to the penguins, they will get scared and will not come back here. Photography and filming are not allowed either because the penguins have sensitive eyes and the bright flashes from your cameras can damage them. But you can download our free Phillip Island app: there you will find detailed information, photos and short films which you can keep or even share with your friends.

I would also like to mention the Penguin Foundation which collects money and protects the penguin colony on Phillip Island. It also gives medical care for sick and injured penguins in our small penguin hospital. To do that, the Foundation needs about $45,000 a year. You can join today for as little as $15 a year and adopt a penguin. Every cent goes directly to penguin projects to care for the little animals. The gates to the viewing areas will only open an hour before the arrival of the penguins, so there will be enough time to go to the visitor centre, one of the cafés or the souvenir shop. That's it for now, we hope you enjoy your stay on Phillip Island.

Maybe we can welcome you again ...

Receptionist: Good morning, what can I do for you?

Ben: It's our last full day in Melbourne. Do you have any tips what we could do?

Receptionist: Hmm, why don't you visit Melbourne Cricket Ground? It's Australia's biggest stadium with more than 100,000 seats.

Ben: Cricket? I don't know ... It's not my favourite sport.

Receptionist: It's not just a cricket stadium. You can watch other sports there, too, for example rugby or Australian football. In fact, there's an Australian football match today.

Anna: Australian football?

Receptionist: It's a great sport – a mix of football and rugby. It's very popular in Australia. Today my favourite team, the Richmond Tigers, are playing against the Brisbane Bears. Oh wait, that's next week. Today, they're playing against Sydney. The match begins at 5.45 in the afternoon.

Ben: That sounds great. Then we've got time to do something else before.

Receptionist: You can also do a guided tour of the stadium, which includes a visit to the players' changing rooms and a walk on the field. You'll have to do it in the morning, though. There aren't any afternoon tours on match days. The café is open. You must try their famous strawberry cheesecake.

Anna: Where is the stadium? Can we get there by bus?

Receptionist: You can, it's Line 14 eastbound. But it's better to walk. The stadium's in East Melbourne, just a 10-minute walk from the city centre.

Ben: How can we get tickets for the match?

Receptionist: You can buy them at the ticket counter before the match. Or you book them online now. That's a little cheaper. The website is: mcg.org.au.

Anna + Ben: Thanks a lot for your help. / Thanks.

Receptionist: You're welcome. Enjoy your day. Hope to see you later in the evening so you can tell me ...
